

LIBRA: I BALANCE

My Service and Duty

Since the beginning of the pandemic, March 2020, Saturn, the Lord Karma, who is exalted in your sign, traveled in your house of children, love, and happiness. That is to say, those aspects of your life were going through some upheaval. Some of you had to deal with challenges with kids, others suffered or focused on love, their happiness or lack of it. In the first two months of 2023, this trend continues but since it is the last leg of Saturn in Aquarius, you might actually find yourself having an easier time, that is if you have done a good job adhering to Saturn's teachings.

From March 7, Saturn moves into Pisces and into your house of work, health, diet, routine, and service and will be there for three years, trying to adjust, fix, rectify, and restructure your workplace as well as how you manage your time, schedule, and routine. Saturn is training you to be a magical Mary Poppins, someone who is a Master of Service, an organizer, a perfect worker, a fixer and a doer.

Last time Saturn was in Pisces teaching you these lessons was between 1993 – 1996, so it would be good to harken back to those times and see how you dealt with these aspects of life, and in what way these lessons are returning. It is similar to rereading a great novel after many years and finding new truths and insights you failed to notice the first time you read the book.

Since Saturn moves from rational Aquarius to emotional and sensitive Pisces, he will ask you to tap into your intuition, imagination, and inner poet. The next three years will teach you to add a layer of empathy to your work and life in general. It is as if Alice invites you to join her into her Wonderland encouraging you to connect to your mystical side. Meditation, dance, yoga, stretching, Pilates, martial arts, gymnastics, swimming, poetry, and daydreaming are recommended. Don't worry, you won't go crazy.

In March this year, another monumental transit takes place. Pluto, the Lord of transformation, is moving into your house which Saturn just left, that is, the house of love, happiness, children, creativity and sports. It is in 2020 – 2023 that you did your Undergraduate degree and now Pluto is asking you to do your PhD. This transit happens once in 250 years which means the lessons are profound and will continue for twenty years. The next two years Pluto will be moving back and forth between the houses of children and love and the house of home and family.

There could be changes in how you deal with family members, relocation, and secrets in the home that could be exposed. Pluto is putting together the old and the new, tradition and innovation, structure and revolution. You might need to add more creativity into your work or tap into your inner child in order to better serve yourself and humanity.

Now for some good news. In the first five months of the year, Jupiter, the planet of expansion and growth, transits in your house of relationships and partnerships, as he did in the second part of 2022, he can bless you with a new partner, or heal and grow your current primary relationships.

From the middle of May, Jupiter transits into Taurus and into your house of sexuality, transformation, your partner's money and talents, inheritance, and joint financial and creative affairs. You are asked to connect to your passion, find what drives and motivates you, and yes, have some intimacy and transformative sexuality.

The North Node will do the opposite transits of Jupiter. In the first part of the year, he blesses your passion, intimacy, and helps you heal as well as become a healer. From July, the North Node moves into Aries, your opposite sign and blesses your relationships.

If you have a partner, you might find your relationship growing and deepening. If you don't, well, you have the next 18 months to find one. Last time this happened was 2005 – 2006. The South Node will be in your sign from July 2023 until the end of 2024, it asks you to focus a little bit less on yourself and more on your significant others.

You will find more happiness in connections and collaborations than by being alone or doing it all yourself. The eclipses of the second part of 2023 and all of 2024 will take place in your sign as well as your opposite, Aries. This is a powerful time for you and will quicken many processes in your life. What you thought will happen in a few years might take place sooner.
