

PISCES: I IMAGINE

My Path Unveiled

Since March 2020, right when the pandemic lockdowns started, Saturn, the Lord of Karma, moved into your house of isolations, past lives, hospitals, jails, and retreats. In fact, that is the house your sign rules, with your infinite empathy and sensitivity to other people's suffering. We were called to use your compassion to help the world deal with the pain and loss.

Maybe it was by some sort of heavenly design that you were asked to dive deep into the house of hospitals in order to provide the care for the sick and desolated. In the first two months of 2023 this mission is coming to completion, you are dealing with the last aspects of Saturn's teaching of letting go, surrender, and cutting away from whatever prevents you from discovering your full potential. Last time you dealt with these lessons was 1991 – 1993.

From March 7, 2023, a big shift is happening to your tribe. Saturn moves into your sign for the first time in 30 years and will stay in Pisces until the beginning of 2026. This is monumental for your sign since Saturn is about to rectify and reconstruct your archetype.

Everything Pisces will be scrutinised, inspected, taken apart, fixed, pressured, and focused so you could come out of this challenging process a better version of yourself. Saturn will check every aspect of your life and help you find a new direction in life and a new image. He will change the way you view yourself and the world, help you rebrand and reinvent yourself. This would involve a great deal of scrutiny and your ability to remain calm would be tested.

There could be issues with father figures, bosses, superiors, and at times it might feel as if you are micromanaged by life. But this is all happening to transform you from a fish to a dolphin, from a princess to a queen, from a prince to a king. In addition, Saturn will take you to bootcamp, forcing you to connect with your body, and deal with the reactions of past actions that you have taken for good or bad with your body. Whatever you have sown so shall you reap.

This process will be supported by Pluto transiting into Aquarius from March 24. For the next two years, Pluto, the Lord of Transformation, will be going back and forth between your house of letting go and the house of community. It appears you will have to look into your friends, your organisations, and humanity in general in order to discover who you are.

As they say, show me your friends and I'll tell you who you are. There will be some purge and letting go among your friends, community, and companies where you work. This process of letting go will take two decades and in 2044 Pluto will move into your sign and a new age will come upon humanity. But until then Saturn and Pluto wish to forge a superhero out of you. In the next few years your intuition, your ability to tap into gifts and skills from past lives, and your compassion and empathy would grow tremendously. It is as if the wizard and witch are training you for a future mystical mission.

The North Node and eclipses shifted at the end of 2021 into the house of communication, business, relatives and the house of travel, teaching, and higher education. The Dragon wants you to learn how to communicate your message, how to connect and be connected as well as attract people you could label brothers and sisters in arms. However, from July, the North Node will settle until the end of 2024 into your house of money, talents, and self-worth. You will be asked for the first time in 19 years to focus on your own talents and money and let go of relying on other people's gifts, finance, or skills.

The Dragon wishes for you to hold fast to your values and gifts instead of giving too much credence to your partner's creeds and or income. These aspects of life also are the ones Jupiter wishes to expend in your life. For the first five and a half months of the year, Jupiter, the giver of gifts, will be enhancing your self-esteem, providing victories in your work that could translate to a raise or promotion, as well as introduce new talents that could later help your finances. From mid-May, Jupiter will enter your house of communication, business, and writing, helping you market your newly discovered talents.

The second part of 2023 is focused on sales, healing relationships with relatives, finding the message you wish to deliver to humanity, and becoming a hub of information and opportunities.
